his get was Mr. Doyle's horse, Prince Charlie, No. 5007, foaled June 15, 1901. A full brother of this horse was Willoughby, exhibited by H. D. Beebe of Westmore and another winner of the blue ribbon at the Barton fair. Taken altogether it was the finest exhibition of a Morgan family on the grounds.

The homing pigeons, which were liberated at the judges' stand Wednesday morning, reached their home in Malden about 5 o'clock. They covered the distance of 207 miles in less than six hours.

Death of Corliss P. Stone.

The Seattle papers announce the death of Corliss P. Stone, one of the city's pioneer capitalists and former mayor. Death came from heart failure while he was about the city. He was born in Berkshire in 1838 and after spending his early life in Vermont came to San Francisco in 1861. A year later he went to the Puget Sound country and established himself in the mercantile business. In 1867 he returned to the East and married Miss Almira Crossman in Chicago, a lady well known in St. Johnsbury where she has relatives. Later he returned to Seattle and was active in the political and business life of that city. Besides his widow he leaves one son, two sisters, nephews and nieces. He was a most estimable and upright man and in his death Seattle has lost one of its first citizens.

Katherine Casey, wife of A. O. Buckley of Montpelier, died at her home on Downing St., Sept. 16, of tuberculosis. Mrs. Buckley has been ill since last April and has been tenderly cared for by her aunt, Miss Katherine Casey of Burlington. She was born in Burlington 26 years ago, her parents moving to St. Johnsbury when she was a little child. Her mother died when she was 4 years old and ever since she has made her home with her grandmother, Mrs. William Denning. Mrs. Buckley received her education in the convent here and graduated in the class of '96, after that she taught in the boys parochial school. She was a musician of marked talent and possessed a beautiful mezzo soprano voice. She sang in the St. Aloysius choir, until she married in 1898. Mr. and Mrs. Buckley were married Oct. 18, 1898 and then moved to Syracuse, N. Y., where they made their home until 1902, when they moved to South Bradford, Vt., and later from there to Montpelier. Mrs. Buckley is survived by her husband and three children, Ruth aged 7, Herbert 4 and Dorothy 18 months, one brother, T. J. There were 50 applicants for this desirable position and the selection was made after a most thorough trial of the various candidates. Prof. Krumpeln's departure from St. Johnsbury will be a serious loss to our musical life as well as to the church with whose musical development he has been so closely associated, and in congratulating him on securing a larger place we bespeak for a host of friends the wish for his continued success and prosperity.

Friday night there was "something doing" when the boys clad in white gathered and after serenading around town assembled at the Cottage and called for Principal Howland. The latter responded to the call and gave a capital five-minute address. After this was over the boys rendezvoused on the Athenaeum steps and various "stunts" were given by members of the newer classes.

A most enjoyable reception was held at the Cottage Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Lucie Webber Macmillan of London, who gave the building to the Academy about a year ago in memory of her mother. This was Mrs. Macmillan's first visit to the Cottage and she was most pleased with its general appearance. The reception was attended by the teachers and trustees of the Academy. Just before the evening closed Mrs. Macmillan spoke in a delightfully informal manner about how she shot a lion in Abyssinia and of her life and hunting trips on her ranch in British East Africa.

County Rally.

A missionary rally for the the Congregational young people's societies of this county was held in the South church Monday afternoon and evening and eight societies in the county were represented, including delegates from Danville, Lyndonville, Melndoes and the East village. At the afternoon session Rev. Edward S. Tead, secretary of the Congregational Education society, spoke of the work in New Mexico and the call from Barrillas for a new schoolhouse. He was followed by Rev. Dr. George H. Gutterston, secretary of the American Missionary Association, who spoke of the work in general.

At the evening service the devotional exercises were in charge of Rev. Dr. S. G. Barnes. Dr. Gutterston was the first speaker and spoke of the work among the Indians in Alaska, the Chinese on the Pacific coast and the work among the Japanese in the Hawaiian Islands. Dr. Tead followed with a brief address upon the work of the C. E. S., among the Mormons. Both speakers had many illustrations and their addresses were spiced with much humor.
